«This section details the Presumptive Eligibility for Pregnant People (PE4PP) program process and includes information about program eligibility criteria.»

«Presumptive Eligibility for Pregnant People Program Overview»

Under the PE4PP program, Qualified Providers (QPs) assist individuals applying for temporary, no Share of Cost Medi-Cal benefits.» Depending on the individual's self-reported information about their income, household size and state residency, if the applicant appears to be eligible for Medi-Cal based on the information provided, a QP shall determine that individual to be "presumptively eligible" for Medi-Cal.

Any Medi-Cal provider authorized to render prenatal care and qualified under the state plan is eligible to be a QP and make presumptive eligibility determinations.

«Individuals may be granted coverage on the date determined eligible via the Presumptive Eligibility for Pregnant People (PE4PP) application in the Medi-Cal Provider Portal.» If an insurance affordability application was not submitted, the PE enrollment period ends on the last day of the month following the month in which the individual was determined eligible for PE. If an insurance affordability application was submitted, eligibility will continue until a determination is made concerning the insurance affordability application.

«Following submission of the individual's information through the Provider Portal PE4PP application, approved individuals will receive a copy of the Immediate Need Eligibility Document and an insurance affordability application to apply for healthcare coverage beyond their PE period.»

Qualified Providers

“Qualified Providers” (QPs) are Medi-Cal providers approved by the Department of Health Care Services (DHCS) to grant immediate, temporary Medi-Cal coverage for ambulatory prenatal care and prescription drugs for conditions related to pregnancy to low-income, pregnant patients, pending their formal Medi-Cal application.

«PE4PP Application Submission

The following are important steps for providers in preparing to submit the Presumptive Eligibility for Pregnant People (PE4PP) application in the Provider Portal.»

Acquire Application

«A PDF version of the application, titled, Presumptive Eligibility for Pregnant People Program Application (MC 263-P), is available to download within the Resource tab in the PE4PP area of the Provider Portal.» The printable PDF version (MC 263-P) is available in both English and Spanish for the applicant or authorized representative to complete with the necessary information.

Review Application

Providers are not responsible for verifying information given by applicants. Providers are responsible only for assuring that the applicant understands the questions and that the application is completed and signed.

Input Information

«Providers input the applicant's verbal or written answers from the MC 263-P into the Presumptive Eligibility for Pregnant People (PE4PP) application in the Provider Portal.»

Print Summary for Applicant's Signature

«Providers print the summary of the completed PE4PP application for the applicant or authorized representative to sign prior to online submission. The PE4PP application is not complete without a valid signature.»

Safeguard Patient Confidentiality

Providers must have safeguards in place when completing the application process to ensure patient confidentiality of the information provided on the application.

Application Summary Signed Copies

«Providers must retain a signed Presumptive Eligibility for Pregnant People Program Application (MC 263) in the applicant's medical record for three years from the last date of billing.» Providers also must give a copy of the signed MC 263 to the applicant or authorized representative for the applicant's records.

« PE4PP providers are required to supply individuals with an eligibility response confirmation from their MC 263 application, along with a copy of the insurance affordability application.»

«Completing the PE4PP Application Online

To initiate the PE4PP application process, applicants may provide their information verbally to the QP or enter it on the MC 263-P.›› The QP enters the information provided by the applicant online for processing. Once the online application is submitted, the applicant's information is transmitted to the Medi-Cal Eligibility Data System (MEDS) for data matching to determine if the applicant is currently known or has established eligibility. «The PE4PP determination is conducted in real-time and providers receive a timely eligibility response of approval or denial.»

«Instructions for completing the online application are included in the Presumptive Eligibility for Pregnant Women \(PE4PW\) Application Web Portal User Guide.›› The user guide may be downloaded from the Medi-Cal Providers website.

Applicant Take-Home Information

Providers must give approved PE4PP applicants a copy of the Immediate Needs Eligibility Document, after the applicant has signed it, and an insurance affordability application. This will facilitate the application process for ongoing health care coverage beyond the PE enrollment period.

Continuation of Benefits

An individual's PE enrollment period may continue if an insurance affordability application is submitted prior to the PE end date and the insurance affordability application is pending.

«PE4PP benefits continue until a determination is made on the insurance affordability application.»

Individuals may complete the insurance affordability application in paper format, online, over the phone, or in person at their local county welfare office. Individuals must complete and submit the insurance affordability application before the PE enrollment period end date to be eligible to receive continuing health care coverage.
